Good Work on the Monterey Highway

With good weather, the Salinas-Monterey road should be reopened for traffic shortly, according to County Engineer Howard Cozzens, who stated that the work of applying the asphalt over the entire stretch is nearly completed.

Movie Star Departs

Pauline Frederick has left Carmel for her Hollywood home. "The Mistress of Shenstone," the next production in which Miss Frederick appears, was ground out at Point Lobos, a few weeks ago. The cliffs at the Point making a perfect setting for the great scene in which the heroine scales a perpendicular precipice.

He Pines for the Pines

Ernest Schaeffle, well known in Carmel, while he was secretary of the State Fish and Game Commission, writes to friends in Carmel from Tien Tsin, China, where he is now living as manager of the China Mongolia Export Company, that only pressing business affairs keeps him away from Ocean Avenue.

Mary'll Have a Little Lamb

Douglas Fairbanks and his bride, Mary Pickford, have purchased a 1,000 acre tract for a hunting lodge in the Jolon Valley region, in this county, says an exchange. Although a frequent visitor at Carmel, Mr. Fairbanks evidently failed to explore the Santa Lucia range, next door to Carmel, before purchasing elsewhere.

Filming of Great Picture Attracts Attention to Carmel

Many of San Francisco's social set motored from Del Monte and Carmel last Sunday, arriving early among the pines and cypresses of Point Lobos, and mingled with the paid Dukes and Duchesses awaiting their arrival on the terraces of the Casino, overlooking the blue waters of Carmel Bay.

When Eric Von Stroheim, master producer, waved his magic megaphone as a signal to his camera men, the scene was Monte Carlo de veras. Except for the clicking cameras one might have thought the days of wireless photography had arrived and the actual view of Monte Carlo at the height of its season was before our eyes; Mediterranean skies and blue waters—'tis a pity the camera cannot register their real beauties—the added charm of Carmel pines as a back ground, together with the animation given to the same by leaders in California's social and financial world, leaves a memory that should dispel longings to see the famous Mediterranean resort.

The consensus of opinion among the six thousand visitors to Carmel was that the camera men at Point Lobos faced natural scenic effects that will produce the much sought after thrill in audiences when "Foolish Wives" is thrown on the screen. A "close up" by a Pine Cone representative convinced him that Von Stroheim wrote the play around Carmel Bay, and that its production will meet the approbation of an unsurpassed [illegible] fans.

The people of Carmel, who are truly cosmopolitan, and perhaps better qualified to pass judgment on artistic efforts than any other community, are favorably impressed with the preliminaries of the production of "Foolish Wives," but await its completion and presentation to the public to answer the question of its acceptance.

THE PINE CONE is devoted to Art, Letters and the Drama, as well as to the business and social affairs of the people of Carmel and vicinity. News items pertaining to these subjects wil be welcomed by the News Editor, as well as your subscription, which will be increased to two dollars per year on after New Years.

Local Wireless Man Attends Convention

Herbert Hand, Carmel's radio expert, says the first annual convention of the Pacific Coast Amateur Wireless Operators in San Francisco marked an epoch in the interesting and valuable art of radio work. While amateurs and professionals were viewing and discussing the new apparatus displayed, they were entertained by music, which was being played by the California Theatre orchestra and transmitted to the convention hall by radio.

A Successful Event

A crowd which taxed the capacity of Manzanita Hall was on hand Thanksgiving night to enjoy the masquerade dance given for the benefit of the local football team. Cash prizes were awarded to Oliver Dutra, best costumed man; Miss Florence Wilde, best costumed lady; and Inez Ingram and Jack Harkless, best dancers.

Annual "Dickens Night"

Rehearsals for "Dickens Night," tomorrow evening, at Arts and Crafts Hall, are about completed. Those who recall the quaint affair of last year are looking forward with much interest to the interpretations and characterizations that will be acted and costumed. Of especial interest will be the presentation of Mr. Pickwick and his friends.

SECTION 4. It shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation to transact or carry on the business or trade of plumbing or pipe laying, in the Carmel Sanitary District, until he or they have complied with the provisions of the three preceding sections of this Ordinance and shall have obtained from the Sanitary Board a certificate and license showing that fact. The fee for said license shall be two dollars and fifty cents ($2.50), payable to Secretary of Board at the time of the issuance of said license.

The applicants must furnish plans and specifications of the work about to be altered or changed, and if found to be in accordance with the rules of the Sanitary Board, a permit shall be granted to do the work, subject to the approval of the Inspector. This rule shall not be construed to include leaks, repairing faucets, breaks in pipes or stoppages of the same.

In the days of Father Serra the people of Carmel were euphoniously spoken of as Carmelenos. Do you not agree that it sounds better than Carmelite? Let us retain and perpetuate the original name.

Residents of Carmel are wondering whether the action of San Francisco newspapers in printing announcements of the motion picture projection "Foolish Wives," staged at Point Lobos last Sunday, refer to it as being produced at Monterey, is because their writers are ignorant of the fact that Point Lobos adjoins Carmel and is more than eight miles distant from Monterey, or because of the fact that Carmel is steadily becoming more popular as a winter and summer resort than San Francisco's much exploited suburban resorts. Newspaper readers are entitled to facts in news items.

It is reported that Lloyds bet the Universal management $3,000 against $90 that ten one-hundredths of an inch of rain would not fall on the costumes of the promenaders in front of the cameras at Point Lobos on Sunday last. Of course, Lloyds won. A review of the meteorological records of Carmel justifies better odds being given in the future, and the statement of the Universal's casting director that on weather conditions depended the establishment of a permanent studio at our ideal landscape point forecasts the arrival of their permanent staff.

Weather and scenic conditions of Carmel beckon to artists, so we may confidently look for a permanent "movie" studio in the very near future. If you don't believe the writer ask anyone of the occupants of the 1,500 autos which passed through Carmel on Sunday, bound for Monte Carlo's casino, on our block, or Universal's casting director, who selected all Carmelenos who applied for a part in the scene, and but one in three from neighboring towns.

After a pilgrimage to Point Lobos last Sunday a visitor was overheard to remark that that picturesque section on the coast most noted in globe-trotters' "logs" for natural beauty, should be preserved by California or the United States for the benefit of its people, who should not be charged toll to enjoy Nature's wonders.

The Pine Cone can handle that job of printing for you at the right price.

CHRISTMAS REBORN

My heart's throbbin' like it used to, old tunes play along its strings
At the thought of Christmas comin' and the thought of Christmas things.
And the thought of little children climbin' out of little beds
With the Christmas candles throwin' golden glory on their heads,
And a-standin' like I've seen them all about the Christmas tree;
There is memories a-plenty comes along the years to me.
But no memories are sweeter than the memories that come
Of the fur-off Christmas mornin's and the children with their drums.

Little children tippytoein' down the stairs in nighties white,
Then a sudden rush an' clatter, and a squealin' of delight
When they see the tree a-standin' in the crispy Christmas dawn.
And a look has made them certain that old Santa Claus is gone—
For although they write to Santa tellin' what they'd like to get
They are always sort of skeered that they will find him there till yet
When they're gettin' up so early, so they give a squeal to see
That he's got his work all finished and has left the Christmas tree.

Children late years ain't been gettin' all they writ him for,
For his work was interfered with by the horrors of the war;
But the war is done and ended, and we've got to rise and go
All the gaits for this here Christmas that we ever used to know;
Got to do our shoppin' early, and enough for years gone by;
Got to bring back Santa Claus and get the Christmas tree, an' try
To forget that there was hatred in the world, an' grief and tears;
Got to do our shoppin' now and brighten up the comin' years.

TOY TREE TABLE DECORATION

Miniature Christmas Emblem May Be Surrounded With Presents Tied With Red Ribbon.

DECORATE the table with a Christmas tree, one of the toy ones, and pile around its foot a quantity of presents tied with red ribbons. These should be only what a college man would call "grinds"—perhaps a tiny tin piano for a would-be performer, a lantern for the one the points of whose jokes are difficult to see, a placid paper golf bag for the enthusiastic player, and so on, each with a rhyme or quotation, says Harper's Bazar. If one considers a goose a somewhat undignified bird, ducks may be exchanged for it, either the domestic fowl or the more expensive canvasback or redhead. Fried celery is very good with duck, the crispest pieces dropped in batter and then cooked in deep fat. But the apple sauce croquettes should not be omitted even with this. For this informal dinner there is a very good and innocuous drink to serve with the heavy course—sweet cider, spiced and sugared to taste, cooked ten minutes and served hot.

Spanish Study Advised

The University of California Extension Courses in Spanish show a greatly increased enrollment of students. This course has become very popular and justly so, Spanish having been the original tongue used in California, and should be perpetuated here because of its beauty of expression and its commercial value.

Everyone is familiar with the work of Cervantes, and the present vogue for the prolific writings of Ibanez is very extensive, but students of Spanish say they lose much of their artistic worth in the translation. Spanish is the language spoken on the entire continent south of us, as well as by our next door neighbor, Mexico. Arrangements have been by the author of "The Wind Before The Dawn," one of Carmel's best known writers, to translate that compelling story into Spanish.

YULETIDE THORN TREE SAVED

Blooming Glastonbury, Subject of Beautiful Legends of Christmas, Was Doomed to Destruction.

ONE of the most beautiful legends of Christmas is that of the Glastonbury thorn. The thorn tree grew at Glastonbury Abbey, in Somersetshire, and was supposed to have developed from the staff of Joseph of Arimathea. According to the legend, Joseph came to Glastonbury and while he was resting on a hill, afterward known as Weary All hill, he stuck his staff in the earth. The staff immediately grew green and budded, and at Christmas time it blossomed into beautiful flowers.

One chronicler states that during Queen Elizabeth's reign the thorn had a double trunk, but that a somewhat bigoted Puritan, who disliked the tree because to his mind it smacked of popery, started to cut it down, and succeeded in demolishing one of the trunks. A miracle rescued the remaining trunk of the tree by causing a chip of wood to fly up and hit the Puritan in the eye, while at the same time he slipped and cut his leg. Later the tree was grubbed up, but a number of smaller trees raised from slips of the original are said to be owned by persons in the neighborhood.

Substitute for a Tree.

We are not going to have a Christmas tree, writes a correspondent. To make them brilliant many pretty little ornaments are needed and they cost a good deal. My plan is for a barrel in place of a tree. I have the barrel now in a closet. It is covered with old dark green cambric and the day before the great holiday I am going to pin sprigs of evergreen and holly over it. It will look pretty gay, I think, when it is filled with the gifts that are going into it now, all prettily tissued and tied, and my son as jolly Old Santa Claus stands over it to delve into its mysteries and to proclaim the names of those who are to solve them. I am sure we will enjoy our barrel as much as we would a tree.

Best of All Holidays

TAKING it all in all, it may be safely asserted that Christmas is the merriest and the best of all holidays, and one which is likely to be observed for ages yet to come. Nations may rise and fall, new beliefs and religions may sweep away the old, but that would seem, indeed, a dreary and empty year which brought no merry Christmas in its annual round. May old Father Time long spare his holiday to mankind to gladden the hearts of all with its coming, and may each Christmas be still merrier than the last.

An Ancient Christmas Dish.

An indispensable Christmas dish of ancient times was "frumenty" or "frumante." Here is the recipe for making the dish according to a faithful old chronicler: "Take clean wheat and bray it in a mortar until the hulls be all gone off, and seethe it until it burst, and take it up and let it cool; and take clean, fresh broth and sweet milk of almonds or sweet milk of kine and temper it all; and take the yolks of eggs. Boil it a little and set it down and mess it forth with fat venison or fresh mutton." Frumenty was often served alone without venison or mutton. When served by itself it was well sweetened.

AMERICAN WOMEN DOING FULL SHARE FOR THE COUNTRY

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, Wife of Republican Nominee, Praises Her Sex.

DISCUSSES HIGH LIVING COSTS

Declares in an Interview That Present High Prices Can Be Reduced by Votes.

By Estelline Bennett.

Mrs. Coolidge sat in a day coach on a slow local train between Boston and Northampton and talked about her husband, her children, the high cost of living and the domestic problem. The conductor and the brakeman stopped as they went through the car to talk to her. She had made friends with them in her frequent journeys back and forth to keep in touch with her children in school in Northampton and her husband at his duties in the state capitol. She knitted diligently as she talked. During those trips she knits all the winter stockings and sweaters for her two boys—John, aged fourteen, and Calvin, twelve.

"Too many people are afraid of work," she thinks is the fundamental reason for the high cost of living and the much discussed domestic problem.

"I think the only thing the women of the country can do now," she said, with the quiet conviction of one who has thought it all out, "is to vote for the men whom they think will make the right laws and see that they are enforced. They have done all they can in the home. I think the reason there is so much sugar on hand now is because people are doing without it in their homes.

Women Have Done Their Share.

"American women have done, and still are doing, their full share. They have sacrificed and saved and substituted and made over. But that isn't enough. They'll have to vote the high cost of living down.

"Here in New England, where it is a little hard for us to give up pie," she laughed at the tradition that has become a joke, "we have learned to use all kinds of cheaper substitutes for butter and lard, and in my own household we have experimented with different fruit combinations to find something we like and that will take the least sugar. Apples must be tart to make good pies, but we have found that blueberries take less sugar and the combination of apples and blueberries, half and half, is delicious, requires less sweetening than apples and has more character than the blueberries alone."

Knows No Domestic Problems.

The domestic problem, which is closing homes all over the country and increasing the hotel population, is something of which Mrs. Coolidge thinks she has no personal, practical knowledge. She never keeps but one maid and she never has been without one. In the fifteen years of her married life she has had only two. The first one she inherited with the furnished house into which she and Mr. Coolidge moved when they were married and took with her when she moved. The second came when the first left to go and live with her sister.

There must be a reason for their staying, it was suggested to Mrs. Coolidge, and she thought possibly there were several. She thought the type of maid had something to do with it. Her's both have been American women old enough to have a sense of responsibility to their work and intelligent enough to respond to reasonable courteous treatment.

"A good many women who keep only one maid have trouble in their households because both mistress and maid, but chiefly the mistress, are afraid of work. A woman expects one maid to do the cooking and scrubbing and everything else and still be dressed up in black dress with white cap and apron, ready to answer the doorbell any minute. It isn't humanly possible. I always answer my doorbell myself. I do it for two reasons. In the first place, there is no one else, and, in the second, I like to greet my friends at the door myself."

Have Home Orchestra.

Mrs. Coolidge is of medium height, with brown hair, hazel eyes that hold a good deal of merriment and a very quick sense of humor. At home she and her children have a little orchestra. Mrs. Coolidge plays the piano John the violin, and Calvin, after considerable discussion, in which he favored a bass drum, compromised on a banjo-mandolin. They play hymns and war songs usually—the hymns they learn in the Congregational church and Sunday School of Northampton. They avoid difficult and unfamiliar music because the object of the orchestra is entirely recreational and not educational. That is a part of Mrs. Coolidge's educational policy—that children should work when they work and play when they play and keep the two separate. That was why she sent her boys to the public schools of Northampton when they were five years old.

Every morning when she is in Northampton, Mrs. Coolidge takes her Boston bag and goes to market. If the neighbor next door is going Mrs. Coolidge goes with her in the car. Otherwise she walks. She has no domestic policy. She buys, she says, "what the family need and can afford."

RED CROSS RELIEF IN CENTRAL EUROPE

But for timely assistance of the American Red Cross during the last year, a large proportion of the 20,000,000 population of the Balkan States might have starved or perished from disease or exposure. Six million dollars worth of food, clothing and medical supplies have been sent to the Balkans—Roumania, Bulgaria, Albania, Montenegro, Serbia, Bosnia and Greece—since the beginning of Red Cross relief operations in Central Europe, while millions of dollars worth of food alone has been sent to the needy in these states.

The money expended by the Red Cross in this stricken portion of Europe has been used to set up hospitals, orphanages, dispensaries, mobile medical units and to help in the general reconstruction of devastated areas. American tractors and other farming implements have been sent to the agricultural regions where aid has been given in plowing the land.

By the last of this year probably all American Red Cross agencies administering relief in Central Europe will have withdrawn. By that time, it is believed, the people will have approached a normal state of living and will be able through their own agencies which the Red Cross has helped set up to provide for themselves.

Santa's Christmas Day

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER.

(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union)

SANTA CLAUS was back in his workshop. It looked very empty. And no wonder. If you could have taken the trip which Santa Claus took you would have seen the reason why, though it would not be hard for any of us to guess the reason why.

Santa Claus on the night before Christmas had stopped at the toy stores and had taken the toys which he had left there so that the children could see them and write letters telling what they wanted.

By that time he had packs and packs of toys, as many as his sleigh could hold, and while his workshop was empty there was a nice, cheerful appearance about it.

There were lots of tools around, however, and there were bits of cloth left from making dresses and hats for dollies, and there were little ends of ribbons which had tied packages. There were pieces of wood, too, which had been sawed off when boats were made.

There were many other things which showed it had been a toy shop. It looked as if it had been full of toys only a little while before—and not only toys but of every sort of a Christmas present for every sort of a child.

A fire was burning cheerfully in the big stove and was making the workshop nice and warm. But there was an open fire, too, at the end of the shop with a big chair in front of it.

On a rug beside the chair sat Boy of the North, his head against the knee of Santa Claus.

He was wagging his tail from time to time and looking into his master's eyes.

"Good old Boy of the North, never forgets his master!" said Santa Claus. And Boy of the North was happy that Santa Claus was so pleased by the warm wrapper and slippers which he had got for his master.

"Good old Boy of the North," said Santa Claus again, patting him, and Boy of the North sniffed the air, and looked at Santa Claus as though to say:

"Who wouldn't be good if he belonged to you? You're always cheerful and happy and always thinking of others. You like children and you like to hear them laugh and you work for them all the year. You're their King, King Santa Claus, and you're my master."

So Boy of the North tried to talk to Santa Claus and Santa Claus understood. He stroked the dog's head, and as he smiled, looking into the fireplace, he said:

"It was a wonderful trip, Boy of the North. I love to sit down here in my easy chair on Christmas day and think about it. Oh, I saw so many lovely children. They were asleep and such nice smiles were playing around their mouths. I hoped, Boy of the North, I hoped they were thinking about me, because I like to have them fond of me."

And Boy of the North pressed nearer as though to say:

"They're fond of you just as I am fond of you—just as fond as can be!"

"My reindeer had such a good time, too. You'll have to go out and see them in their stalls soon, and hear how they had to slow up whenever they made lots of noise, for I was so afraid they would awaken the children.

"And now, Boy of the North, you know what I must do!"

Boy of the North stretched himself and got up. He followed Santa Claus to a corner of the workshop and then back to a window while Santa Claus carried a long, long telescope.

"This is my magic telescope which you see me use each year, Boy of the North," said Santa Claus. "I look at children all over the world, and when they smile and I can see how happy they are then I am being thanked for my work.

"It was very hard this year to get all that the children wanted. Some years are harder than others, but the children understood and I haven't seen a single scowl. No, Boy of the North, not a single scowl.

"Oh, what thanks! Every child everywhere is smiling, Boy of the North, and every child is happy!"

And there were tears in those merry twinkling eyes of Santa Claus—yes, tears—but tears of joy at the smiles of children whom he had been able to see through his magic telescope.

Dumb Animals Remembered.

The noblest observances of Christmas are its charities. In all ages and among all peoples the poor have always been bountifully remembered on that day, and in many parts of England and Scotland even the lower animals are given an extra feeding that they, too, may have cause for rejoicing when all mankind are glad. Many readers will remember Burns' address of the auld farmer to his mare when presenting her with an extra feed of corn on New Year's day. "A guid New Year I wish thee, Maggie. Hae, there's a ripp to thy auld baggie."

Christmas Trees by Million

NURSERYMEN grow large quantities of Norway spruce for Christmas uses—rather more in the middle West, where conifers are not common in the woods, than on the eastern and western coasts, where they fringe every hillside. But the tree most commonly used is a short-needle pine found in the woods of Northern Michigan and Wisconsin. Early in September the Indians about the lumber camps of this region are set to work cutting these trees for the market, and by early November a little fleet of vessels makes its way down Lake Michigan, a Christmas tree hauled to the foremast of each one, that by this sign all may know that in their holds is a cargo which might not tempt a Captain Kidd, but is far more precious than many a one for which good ships have been scuttled.

The Wonders of America

By T. T. MAXEY

THE STATUE OF LIBERTY.

THE colossal statue of Liberty enlightening the world, the gift of the people of France to the people of the United States, in commemoration of the centennial of their national independence, stands on Bedloe's or Liberty Island in New York harbor and was dedicated October 28, 1886. It has welcomed millions of people to our shores, and it bade farewell to our brave soldier boys when they sailed away to save the land from whence it came.

This statue is of bronze, 151 feet high and rests upon a stone pedestal, approximately 100 feet high, making the total height of the entire structure over 300 feet above the waters of New York bay. Its estimated weight is 225 tons and the cost, including erection, was about $600,000.

The index finger of this gigantic figure is 8 feet long and 7½ feet in circumference at the second joint; the head is ten feet thick; the nose 4½ feet long and the mouth 3½ feet wide. Forty persons can stand in the head and the torch will accommodate 12 more. There are 154 steps in the statue from the pedestal to the head, and the ladder in the raised right arm contains 54 rounds. The light in the torch is maintained by the United States lighthouse service and is visible for many miles at sea.

The view that greets the eye from the top is one of the most marvelous in all the world.

Good Year for Violets.

Sweet peas have been forced for the Christmas market only for many years past. They must be started blooming before the cold weather begins. Then they will bloom all winter. Daffodils do not get in until February, but almost all the rest of the spring flowers, hyacinths, narcissuses, bavardia, and so on, are on the Christmas counters. Easter lilies, too, though rather cold and white for Christmas, are sold. Violets, are fine this winter, deeply, darkly, beautifully blue. Some mignonette now comes in enormous sprays. There are carnations but the bright red Christmas carnation is the favorite. Holly comes from the hills of Maryland and the south. The wild holly supplies the market and there has never seemed to be any perceptible diminution of the supply. Great quantities of it are purchased by all sorts of dealers, who decorate their stores with it and send out a sprig attached to every Christmas parcel.

Harmony Essential in Forest Theatre

A few days ago, a lady who recently erected a residence and established her home here, wishing to be identified with the artistic activities of Carmel, tendered a gentleman resident two dollars to secure membership in the Forest Theatre organization. After a few days, the money was returned to the lady with the advice that it would be well to await joining the organization until "The Controversy" was adjusted.

The Pine Cone holds no brief for either party to the alleged controversy, but it does feel very strongly that if there is a controversy, matters should be quickly and amicably straightened out.

The so-called controversy is perhaps either a question of something in the organization formation which was not done in exact legal form, or it may have to do with the regularly adopted program for next summer's plays.

Whatever it is, the Forest Theatre is too big and essential a feature of our community life to perpetually quarrel about.

We must all get together in this matter in a spirit of high regard for the Forest Theatre. Personal prejudices and animosities and self advancement have no place in this community enterprise.

The Carmel city trustees will hold their monthly meeting at the City Hall next Tuesday evening.

Interesting Art News

A committee of artists, headed by Frank Van Sloun, are discussing plans for an organization of artists, former students of the California School of Fine Arts. Carmel artists will be advised of the progress of the organization through the columns of the Pine Cone.

The artist members of the Bohemian Club are holding their annual exhibit this week. As usual, the exhibition is notable not only for its variety of subjects, but for the discriminating tastes of the artists in their choice of charming bits of California scenery. The sculptors are strongly represented by Arthur Putnam, Haig Patigan, A. P. Proctor and J. J. Mora. Prominent among the painters exhibiting are Charles Rollo Peters, C. J. Dickman, Clark Hobart, Ferdinand Burgdorff, C. Chapel Judson.

Ferdinand Burgdorff, one of the original members of Carmel's art colony, has two splendid new paintings on exhibition at the Schussler Galleries.

Constance Peters is exhibiting pictures, in both oil and water colors, at the Arthur Baden studios in San Francisco. Mrs. Peters favorite subjects are always to be found in Carmel and vicinity.

E. Charlton Fortune, who has been painting in and around Carmel for the past few months, has returned to her studio in San Francisco. Miss Fortune's picture, "El Rancho del Carmelo," which was hung at the summer exhibition of the Carmel Arts and Crafts, was the picture which received most of the votes of the many visitors, and was a splendid example of the artist's virile style.

Prominent among the exhibitors at the Hotel Richelieu in San Francisco is Isabel Hunter, who was prominently identified with the Carmel artists' colony some years ago.

Allen G. Macdonell, an Eastern mineral and agricultural scientist, writes to Carmel friends, that he has selected Carmel Valley as the best locality to experiment with and demonstrate his recent discovery of a mineral substance, which he has named "Radiolife." Mr. Macdonell believes and claims that the formula of his radioactive compound will produce remarkable increases in the vigor and yield of all forms of plants when applied in the early stages of growth. A series of articles on the subject and history of Radiolife will appear in these columns from time to time.
